

CMP/DIG6200 Individual Undergraduate Project – The Project Journal

You will need to keep a record of your management of the project. This is in the form of an on-line journal that records progress relating to the management of your project.

It is only updateable by you and is shared with your supervisors.

You should create a journal entry every week that can be used to support discussions with your supervisor and assist you in planning your time.

A journal entry is an account of an activity such as a supervisor meeting, reading a journal. etc. The format for a journal entry is not fixed except that the date of entry should be at the beginning, notes on meetings with supervisors, key issues, action plans and key events should be noted and there should be a conclusion describing actions to be done at the end.

The project management journal content is submitted for assessment at the end of the project and supports the marking of progress throughout the project.

Accessing Mahara

We are using the ePortfolio system Mahara for your journal.

On your project Moodle (moodle.bcu.ac.uk) you will find a drop down menu at the top called

Explore  where you can select Mahara

This takes you to <https://moodle-portfolio.bcu.ac.uk/>

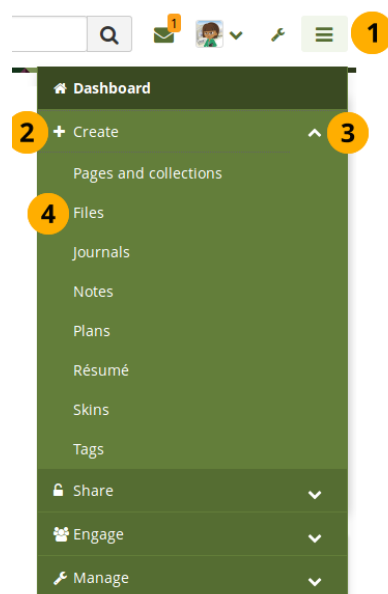

The main menu is accessed using the menu  on the right.

1 = open/close menu

2/3 = open/close sub menu for creating content

4 = content types

we are only concerned with Pages and Journals

Setting up your Journal

The set-up is fairly straightforward

- Create a Mahara Journal
- Create a Mahara Page and add the Journal into it
- Share the Mahara Page with your supervisor
- Add individual journal entries

You can then update your journal every week

1. Create the Mahara Journal

Click on the + Create – Journals

This will take you to your journal list where you can create your project management journal

This week I have submitted my proposal and had my supervisor allocated.
I have read the Project handbook and looked at the proposal template

Actions:

- arrange to meet supervisor on monday
- look at the Ethics section on Moodle
- review my aims and objectives

- You could attach a file if your considered something relevant to your project management
- You can flag an entry as draft so your supervisor cant see it if you are developing an entry over time or want to save for later – remember to turn off though
